Novethic, the sustainable transformation accelerator of the French Caisse des Dépôts Group, presented today, with the support of the French Environment and Energy Management Agency (ADEME), the results from its study "Les promesses des fonds verts non cotés européens" which shows invested amounts in green assets by 223 European unlisted funds in infrastructure, private equity, real estate, etc. Paris Agreement in 2015 clearly introduced flows to these funds which represent nearly 10% of the unlisted funds with 57.6 billion euros of invested assets, the share of renewable energies is of 48%. The number of funds is growing but there is a slowdown in the raised amounts. According to Novethic, with 9 billion euros invested in 54 funds, France arrives second behind the United Kingdom and ahead Germany. Here we are with figures. But the observation is twofold: on one hand, the study states that "the massive mobilization of financial flows supporting green economy is yet to come", thus this underlines its emerging nature today. On the other hand, renewable energies remain the main theme, but climate, energy transition, sustainability, environment and water are constantly evolving, and RGREEN INVEST has fully taken it onboard in 2018.
